Workshop Description:

"Jupiter" by Mary Louise Ravese
(Reflection in Hammered Metal)

Are you ready to take your photography to the next level? Some creativity exploration may be just what you need to unleash your inner artist.

In this class we will develop your sense of creativity by exploring how to capture unique images of reflections. Each week we will learn a variety of different techniques and experiment with different reflective surfaces including glass, mirror, water, metal and mylar. In addition we will discuss the use of color, texture, and lighting in compositional design. During class students will practice techniques using simple setups in the classroom studio. In the final session, students will receive feedback on their images and recommendations for printing, matting and framing their artwork.

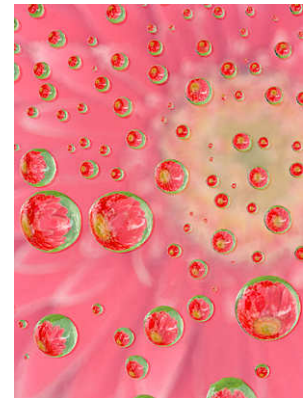

As a result of this class, not only will you start producing more unique images, but this approach will also transform how you discover viable photographic subjects.

"Mirage" by Mary Louise Ravese
(Reflection in Textured Glass)

This class is ideal for the intermediate photographer, graduates of an "Introduction to Digital Photography" class, or those with equivalent experience who are comfortable with adjusting the settings on their camera.

Since images require a certain amount of trial and error experimentation, a digital SLR camera is best suited for this class. Macro equipment such as a macro lens, and/or a zoom lens with extension tubes are recommended for best results. A list of suggested equipment and equipment rental information will be made available to registered students.

"Raining Daisies"
by Mary Louise Ravese
(Reflection in Water Droplets)

Escape the mundane, having fun is guaranteed!
